

INSTITUTE FOR
DAISAKU IKEDA STUDIES
IN EDUCATION

DEPAUL UNIVERSITY

2019 IKEDA LECTURE

Ceasar McDowell

MIT Professor of the Practice of Community Development

Dialogue in Demographic Complexity

Overcoming Our Discriminatory Consciousness

Ceasar McDowell is Professor of the Practice of Community Development and Director of the Global Civic Engagement Organization, Dropping Knowledge International, at MIT. He is Co-founder of The Civil Rights Forum on Telecommunications Policy and a founding Board member of The Algebra Project. His work centers on voice and the development of community knowledge systems and civic engagement. His research and teaching interests include the use of mass media and technology in promoting democracy and community-building, the education of urban students, the development and use of empathy in community work, civil rights history, peacemaking, and conflict resolution.

Free and open to the public | 2 CPDUs

RSVP: <https://ikedalecture2019.eventbrite.com>

For questions: IkedaInstitute@depaul.edu

TUESDAY
OCTOBER 1
6:00-7:30PM

DePaul University
Student Center 120 A&B
2250 N Sheffield Ave